40 Boran Cross Bulls
50 Boran Cross Heifers

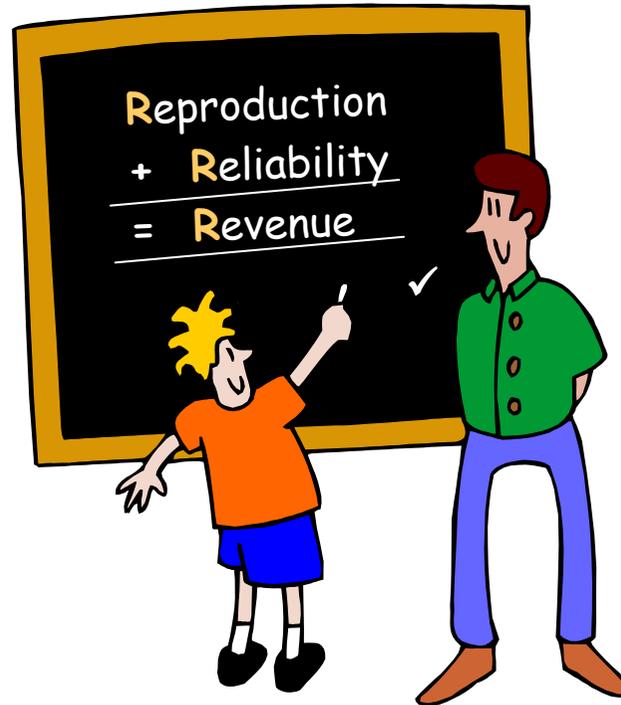

The North Australian Pastoral Company is reputed to be enjoying a substantial increase in the calving percentage of some of its cattle herds due to its use of African genetics in their composite bulls.

You can too! Research has shown the African cattle breed Boran (pure Bos Indicus) provides increased fertility as well as the hardiness necessary to thrive in the challenging North Australian savannah.

Let me draw to your attention the results achieved at Belmont Research Station, Queensland, by Dr John Frisch. It revealed pregnancy rates in 1st calf lactating heifers of the Boran-Brahman cross of 80 per cent, as opposed to 42 per cent for straight Brahman heifers.

With costs rising all the time, raising production levels is vital and calving percentage must surely rank number one. Boran cattle are the number one recommendation of CSIRO since 1986. Certainly NAPCO has achieved remarkable results by stepping out with new African genetics.

We hope you will come to Katherine on April 30 to have a look at our Boran-cross cattle and give them a go in your herd.

"Temperament—first or last, where ever you want it, but nothing without it."

Coodardie Brahmans are genetically quiet and with low stress stock handling techniques they remain so. Nobody can afford to risk their safety and that of their staff and family with mad cattle. Temperament is highly heritable and so by using genetically quiet bulls the positive results can be seen instantly.

Thirty plus years of dedicated breeding of pure Brahmans whilst concentrating on the above as well as fertility, structural soundness, carcass quality and adaptability for harsh northern conditions means that Coodardie can confidently offer you a high quality product that breeds true.

Offering you value and performance is important to us. All bulls are semen tested sound and fertility evaluated. Red and greys including some exceptional natural poll animals will make up the draft.
