Northern Australia is simply unique. Its look, languages and outback lifestyle make for an exotic tourism experience. And the only way to truly appreciate it all is to stay at its heart, with people who work the land. Clair and Mike O'Brien open up the red centre for you at their Coodardie Station, generously sharing its riches with guests who are treated like family.

You'll want to start with a station tour, finding out about the holistic cattle grazing rotation techniques they are pioneering here. Kids and adults alike will be fascinated by the way this farm runs, getting up close to the Brahman cattle and other breeds or seeing where the fresh eggs for breakfast come from. And there is always plenty of time to relax on the verandah soaking up the bush views or enjoying nearby Mataranka's thermal pools or barramundi fishing.

Guests might be in the heart of the outback but the comforts at Coodardie extend everywhere from the breezy guest rooms to the delicious family meals shared with the O'Briens (all included in the tariff). If you are coming to the Northern Territory to experience outback life, Coodardie Station is a must-stay for a few days.
